TOWN COUNCILLOR URGES YOUNG PEOPLE TO USE THEIR VOTE PAGE 19

Disgusting, repugnant and vile

That's what judge called this man's attempts at grooming children

By Martin Ford

martin.ford@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A "SAD and lonely" man from North Weald has been jailed for six years for attempting to groom children and sharing indecent images online.

Barry Gooderham, 51, formerly of Hawks Hill, was sentenced last Friday (May 12) at Chelmsford Crown Court, having previously pleaded guilty to 18 charges, all of which took place in Harlow.

The court heard police raided his home on December 1, 2015 and uncovered chat logs dating as far as back as January 2014, in which he encouraged what are purported to be teenage girls to perform sex acts and send him indecent photographs.

He later admitted three charges of attempting to cause a girl aged 13 to 15 years old to engage in sexual activity.

The charges all relate to attempts as the victims have never been traced and their ages cannot be verified.

He also pleaded guilty to five counts of distributing indecent images of children and nine counts of making hundreds of images of children.

Gooderham also admitted one charge of attempting to meet a girl under 16 after grooming.

Filmed

A movie and stills of a 13-year-old he had filmed himself were among the material he distributed among three other men.

Referring to Gooderham's chat logs, judge Peters said: "To say they were utterly disgusting, repugnant, vile things to read would be to understate it considerably."

Emma Nash, prosecuting, said Gooderham arranged to meet someone he thought was a

Move to Mexico could save little Kaleigh's life

Brave young cancer patient has just a 1% chance of survival

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsexnews.co.uk

A MUM and dad have quit their jobs and moved to Mexico to help their seven-year-old daughter receive life-saving treatment.

Kaleigh Lau attended Harlow Chinese School but the family's life was put in jeopardy in April last year when she was diagnosed with a deadly DIPG (diffuse intrinsic pontine glioma) brain tumour.

The NHS does not provide treatment or funding as the number of sufferers (40 per year) "does not justify the huge costs", according to her father Scott Lau, 41.

But despite Kaleigh being given just a one per cent chance of surviving, the family have sold assets and dropped everything to provide specialist treatment in Mexico, with each round costing £13,000.

Scott's cousin Vincent Lau, 42, of Chenies Green, Bishop's Stortford, said: "There is no cure and doctors cannot operate due to the location of the tumour."

Radiotherapy

"The only treatment is radiotherapy, which is a palliative treatment developed over 30 years ago and there has been no development due to lack of funding."

"She was doing remarkably well through 2016 but at the beginning of this year things took a turn for the worst."

"The tumour started to grow and radiotherapy and other medicines have not helped to stop her condition deteriorating."

"Day-by-day Kaleigh is getting worse, her eyes have not recovered and she is seeing double, she is still able to walk but getting very unbalanced."

Scott, his wife Yang and younger son Carson have now travelled thousands of miles away from their Woodford Green home and their family are holding a fundraiser in Roydon for them.

Vincent has organised The Great Essex Leg Wax in Kaleigh's honour and 25 men will push through the pain barrier to raise money at Emery Rogers Hair and Beauty Salon in Roydon this Sunday.

Scott, Kaleigh, Carson and Yang Lau, who have relocated to Mexico

He said: "Unfortunately there is nothing else the UK can offer Kaleigh, so the family has made the life changing decision to drop their life and go to Mexico."

"There is a new intra-arterial (IA) chemotherapy treatment that seems to be promising to children with this condition."

"It comes as no surprise this is going to a very expensive trip, but understandably Scott and his wife are prepared to do whatever it takes to save their daughter's life."

Vincent added: "We are just a bunch of Essex lads who have grown up with Scott or have had the pleasure to work with him."

"This is why we are all taking part in The Great Essex Leg Wax. To bring awareness to DIPG and the lack of funding and options in the UK but also to raise funds Kaleigh."

Scott told the Harlow Star in October the family were desperately seeking treatment options for his daughter, who was born in Princess Alexandra Hospital in Harlow.

Daughter

Both Scott and his wife studied in Harlow and are known to many in the town.

The average time for survival after DIPG diagnosis is nine months.

Astronaut Neil Armstrong lost his daughter Karen to the condition in 1962, but treatment has hardly progressed since.

Vincent said the family has currently spent £17,750 from the first round of IA treatment, accommodation, flights and other costs.

They now need to raise £13,000 for the next round of IA treatment and £12,000 for immunotherapy, making fundraising events such as the leg wax more important.

They have currently reached £8,500 but hope to raise £10,000 in donations. To donate to the appeal visit: www.justgiving.com/crowdfunding/TheGreatEssexLegWax

Readers are invited to witness the leg wax which begins at the salon from 1pm. A bucket for donations is also available.

Trading Standards seize overseas cigs

MORE than 60,000 foreign label cigarettes were seized by Trading Standards in Harlow town centre.

Alongside Essex Police, Trading Standards carried out Operation May on Thursday, May 11 with the help of specialist search dogs from BWY Canine.

From investigating two retail premises and an associate vehicle, an estimated 68,000 cigarettes, which had a street value of around £30,000, were seized. They are believed to be UK excise duty evaded and do not carry the correct health warnings. Trading Standards also believe a proportion of the cigarettes are counterfeit.

One arrest was made and the investigation is ongoing. Police and Trading Standards did not state which retail premises were investigated.

nine-year-old girl, who in fact turned out to be another "middle-aged man".

"That was never going to take place, but clearly Mr Gooderham didn't know that," she added.

Anthony Abell, for the defence, passed a handwritten letter from Gooderham's mother to judge Emma Peters during the hearing.

He said: "He worked with stroke patients as a nurse for over five years and has also worked for a long time for St John Ambulance Service."

Married

Gooderham was also involved in foster care for vulnerable children in the past and was married for about 20 years with children aged 21 and 19 years old.

Mr Abell added: "His father died six or so years ago and he took that very, very badly indeed. Within a year of that, his wife with whom he had a functional relationship, announced she was bored with the marriage, she had been unfaithful to him and was going to leave."

"That hit him like a thunderbolt. It had a devastating effect on his life and confidence in himself as a person and he became very introverted."

"He became a sad and lonely middle-aged man who turned to the internet and one thing led to another."

Since legal proceedings began, Gooderham's car had been vandalised, a petrol bomb was thrown at his home and an investigation is underway into an alleged assault on him at a previous court hearing, Mr Abell said.

Throughout last week's hearing, Gooderham, dressed in a blue hoodie, sat with his head bowed, before looking impassively at Judge Peters as she sentenced him to six years in prison for the grooming and three counts of attempting to cause a girl aged 13 to 15 years old to engage in sexual activity.

In addition to the six-year jail sentence, Gooderham received a combined eight and a half years for all to run concurrently for the charges relating to indecent images.

Judge Peters said: "These sort of life events befall many people, but most people don't resort to this sort of paedophilic offending."

Serious

"They are serious, and show to me you have a clear sexual interest in children, even including a baby a matter of weeks old."

"For the rest of your life you will have the police looking over your shoulder."

Gooderham will also be subject to a Sexual Harm Prevention Order and his name will remain on the sexual offenders register indefinitely.

Hearing rules young doctor's negligence led to delay in treatment for meningitis

Trust is found liable for girl's brain damage

THE Princess Alexandra Hospital NHS Trust will pay out a multi-million pound compensation package to a 14-year-old girl who was left with irreversible brain damage after contracting meningitis.

Top judges ruled that her injuries were a result of negligence of a hard-pressed young doctor at Harlow's Princess Alexandra Hospital.

The 25-year-old medic had failed to take a proper medical history before discharging the girl, who was 13 months old at the time, with a suspected upper respiratory tract infection.

London's Civil Appeal Court heard that the girl was left with learning difficulties and profoundly deaf and last Friday's ruling (May 12) means that she is entitled to the compensation.

The girl's mother had described her eyes rolling into her head as she was rushed to hospital by ambulance in September 2003.

Arrived

Yet after she arrived in A&E, the doctor failed to ask an "obvious question" as to why the child had been brought to hospital in the early hours of the morning.

The relatively inexperienced senior house officer was aware that most children taken to A&E "are in fact well."

After an examination, the youngster was deemed to be "alert, active and well" and most likely had a minor infection.

However, during the 25-minute consultation, she had failed to ask about the girl's rolling eyes, which had been already picked up on by the ambulance crew.

The youngster was discharged, only to return to hospital later the same day after her condition swiftly deteriorated.

She was referred to a paediatrician, but the medic's negligence had led to a critical delay in her being treated with antibiotics.

The NHS Trust accepted that had she been treated earlier, the spread of the disease would have been halted and she would have escaped injuries.

The girl's damages claim was rejected by a judge in 2015, but the Court of Appeal reversed that decision and ruled the trust was in fact liable.

Princess Alexandra Hospital, Harlow

Lady Justice Thirlwall, sitting with Lord Justice Jackson and Mrs Justice King, said: "The conclusion that the history taking was not carried out to the standard to be expected of a competent senior house officer is inevitable. "I am satisfied that the doctor was in breach of duty and negligence is established."

Lord Justice Jackson said: "History taking is a basic skill which hospital doctors at all levels are expected to possess."

"The fact that the girl's eyes had been rolling and uncoordinated was the event that precipitated the hospital visit. The ambulance staff picked this up."

He added: "I must acknowledge that junior hospital doctors work long hours under considerable pressure."

"They are often involved in life and death decisions. The pressures can be even greater when they are working all night, as the doctor was here."

"If mistakes are made, it is devastating for the patient and it is expensive for the NHS trust."

"Doctors, however, are human. Even good and conscientious doctors may, from time to time, fall short."

Giving encouragement to junior doctors, he added: "That is not a reason to lose heart, or even worse, to abandon medical practice. Those who have learnt from past mistakes often have even more to offer."

Hospital took measures to prevent cyber-attack

PRINCESS Alexandra Hospital (PAH) in Harlow shut down its computer networks as a precaution after a cyber attack affected 16 NHS organisations across the country.

However PAH was not directly affected by the original cyber attack and is only acting a precaution.

A spokeswoman at PAH said: "I can confirm we have not been affected by the cyber attack. As a precaution some of our networks and systems were taken offline to protect our systems."

The spokeswoman did not know whether patients who would normally be sent to A&E at Lister Hospital in Stevenage would be sent instead to Harlow as part of the support being offered by the trust.

An NHS spokeswoman has confirmed that no patient data was believed to have been taken in the cyber attack that left hospitals telling people to stay away from A&E.

She said: A spokeswoman said: "At this stage we do not have any evidence that patient data has been accessed. We will continue to work with affected organisations to confirm this."

"NHS digital is working closely with the National Cyber Security Centre, the Department of Health and NHS England to support affected organisations and to recommend appropriate mitigations."

Targeted

"This attack was not specifically targeted at the NHS and is affecting organisations from across a range of sectors."

Meanwhile Health secretary Jeremy Hunt is facing questions over how the systems were left so apparently poorly defended.

The Government Digital Service (GDS), set up by David Cameron, decided not to extend a £5.5 million one-year support deal with Microsoft for Windows XP.

Teenager who had no licence to face a judge

THE fate of a teenager who led police on a 20-minute car chase after he had been smoking cannabis will be decided by a crown court judge.

Matt Smith, 19, of Old House Lane, Harlow, did not have a driving licence when he sped away from police at more than 60mph in a 40mph limit in Waltham Cross.

Stevenage Magistrates' Court heard on Wednesday, May 10, that in the early hours of February 26, Smith was spotted by police driving his Nissan Micra with three passengers.

Prosecutor Mark Fleckney said: "The officers drove up towards the vehicle which then began to move off at speed."

"It went through a set of red lights at Lea Road and it was travelling at 60mph along Eleanor Cross Road, which is a 40 limit."

"The Micra then went onto the A121 and reached the roundabout with the M25. He then led the traffic officers in a pursuit onto the M25."

After a 20-minute chase, the officers forced the Micra into the central reservation and arrested Smith.

At the hearing, Smith pleaded guilty to driving dangerously, without insurance or a licence, and driving while under the influence of cannabis.

He will be sentenced at St Albans Crown Court on June 9 and has been disqualified from driving for six months, or until another sentence is passed.

DJ and rock band to take centre stage at breakfast

Absolute Radio breakfast show host on air at secondary school

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

ROCK band Kasabian are "really excited" to play at Burnt Mill Academy tomorrow (Friday, May 19) according to DJ Christian O'Connell.

The Absolute Radio host will present his breakfast show from the secondary school in First Avenue, Harlow after it won the station's BrekFest competition.

As part of the live broadcast Kasabian are expected to perform four songs, a mixture of tracks from their latest album For Crying Out Loud and old classics.

Christian said: "I am a big Kasabian fan and I have seen them many times, but to see them at 8am is a first for me.

"A rock band would not usually be up at that time, let alone performing. They are really excited about it.

"I can't wait for it. When they heard it was a school they wanted as many kids to come as possible."

Bigger

He added: "We have done BrekFest before with Ocean Colour Scene and Ash but this year we wanted to do something bigger.

"We wanted somewhere which could get a makeover too as part of a partnership with Wickes."

To land the gig Burnt Mill (BMA) students recorded a cover of early Kasabian song Club Foot with reworked lyrics.

The lyrics were about how, after the closure of The Square, the town no longer has a suitable music hub for young people.

BMA was competing against venues around the country for the top prize.

Adam Smith, BMA media communications manager, said he hopes the school hall can provide a space for students to perform. Thanks to the renovation the dream can be a reality.

Christian said: "The school ticked all the boxes. It is great what they are trying to do in supporting the local community.

Christian O'Connell will broadcast his breakfast show from Burnt Mill Academy for BrekFest

Kasabian are set to play a gig in a Harlow school hall

It is such a good story.

"The song told the story and they worked really hard on that. They edited it really well. As soon as I heard it I thought we had to pick them."

Christian, who is on air weekdays from 6am to 10am, added: "I have got a kids book out at the moment (Radio Boy) and I want everyone there to have a copy."

Wickes has enlisted VIY, a not-for-profit community interest company that combines volunteering and DIY to work on the venue.

Worker hit by dumper truck rushed to hospital

A PEDESTRIAN was rushed to hospital in a serious condition after he was involved in a collision with a truck in The Stow, Harlow, on Friday May 5.

The man, believed to be in his 30s, was taken to Princess Alexandra Hospital where he was understood to have been treated for serious leg injuries.

The East of England Ambulance Service received a call at 9.32am and dispatched an air ambulance as well as a rapid response vehicle and an ambulance crew.

Medics

A spokesman said: "At the scene medics treated the man for an isolated leg injury before taking him to Princess Alexandra Hospital via land ambulance for further care."

The ambulance service also called the police who attended the scene.

A spokesman on behalf of Essex Police, added: "Police were called to reports of a road traffic collision at an industrial site in The Stow.

"We were contacted by the ambulance service after an on-site worker, aged in his 30s, was struck by a dumper truck.

"The man suffered a serious leg injury and was taken to hospital by ambulance."

He was believed to be in a stable condition.

Airport college vision

Pioneering Stansted project will be UK's first

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

AN £11 million technical skills college could be built at Stansted Airport in a joint project with Harlow College.

A planning application has been submitted for the two-story campus which could train more than 500 students through traineeships and apprenticeships.

Focusing primarily on science and mathematics (STEM) subjects, the building would open in autumn 2018.

It would be the first college of its kind in any airport and designed to supplement the courses offered by the education centre in Velizy Avenue, Harlow.

Innovative

Karen Spencer, principal of Harlow College, said: "We are delighted to be working with Stansted Airport on this innovative new project."

"We firmly believe genuine partnerships between employers and education can help young people make informed choices about their future.

"By working alongside Stansted's business partners we can provide young people and adults with the right skills to give them great careers, whether it be in aviation, engineering, hospitality or business."

There are a reported 13,000 vacancies in engineering and advanced manufacturing in Essex. The number could increase when Public Health England's Harlow site opens and more businesses open in Harlow Enterprise Zone.

Dementia Friends

Specsavers' optical and hearing teams become Dementia Friends

With visual impairments common among those with dementia, Specsavers is ensuring a trip to the opticians and audiologists is as comfortable as possible for them.

In the run up to Dementia Awareness Week (15-21 May), Specsavers employees nationwide are becoming Dementia Friends, an initiative run by the Alzheimer's Society. Every store now has at least one team member who is a Dementia Friend and understands the needs of customers with dementia a little more. The Specsavers Healthcall teams that carry out home visits are also becoming Dementia Friends.

Specsavers is also using Dementia Awareness Week to remind anyone over 55 to undergo regular hearing tests, as research suggests that people with untreated hearing loss are more likely to develop Alzheimer's. Hearing tests are free at Specsavers.

Dr Nigel Best, Specsavers clinical spokesperson, says: 'People with dementia may not be able to recognise or articulate the issues that many of us face when we begin to lose our sight or hearing - but the effects are the same. Being more aware of dementia is an incredibly positive development for our teams and our offering to customers.'

Those with dementia commonly experience problems with their sight and visual perception, causing them to misinterpret the world around them. Some sufferers can experience hallucinations. On top of that, research has revealed that almost half of dementia patients in care homes are wearing glasses with the wrong prescription, leading to increased isolation.

Laura Stallerbrass, store manager at Specsavers Forfar, has encouraged all her team to do Dementia Friends.

'We aim to provide a safe environment for all of our customers. I can definitely see a shift in attitudes to dementia which is lovely to experience.'

Oldest theatre group in Harlow keeping the audience in stitches

Fans of The Moot House Players enjoy a three-night run of Neighbourhood Watch

WHEN it comes to neighbours, there are ones that resonate in every neighbourhood.

From the one who is just too friendly to the nosy and the mysterious, these all came to life in some way or another in The Moot House Players' adaptation of a modern classic.

Starting their three-night run on Thursday, the drama enthusiasts of the oldest theatre group in Harlow had the crowd laughing with their adaptation of Alan Ayckbourn's Neighbourhood Watch which was directed by Jon McNamara.

Well-to-do

It all began when Hilda Massie (Angela Hodgson) and her brother Martin (Mike Rees) move into the well-to-do Bluebell Hill development which overlooks the Mountjoy Estate, notorious for its crime and anti-social behaviour.

When a schoolboy jumps over the back fence of the Massie's home, mistaking the clarinet he is carrying for a lethal weapon, the brother and sister decide to set up a neighbourhood watch as a result of being afraid of what might happen next.

The Moot House Players took on a play by Alan Ayckbourn

As an audience, we are invited into the lives of these eight people, gaining an insight into their personalities and the measures they will go to in order to protect their neighbourhood.

At each meeting, there was the likes of Amy Janner (Helen Sangster) who plays up to her reputation as a flirt; gossip Dorothy Doggett (Jenny Southwell); and the disapproving, Rod Trusser (Michael Branwell), to name just a few.

What starts as just some extra fencing as a safety precaution turns into patrols and security to people even wearing identification badges to get in and out of Bluebell Hill in this witty but dark play which was packed full of laughs.

Small touches made by the team including the patterned retro cushions on the chairs for the audience were simple but effective in making us feel part of the action.

One thing that is clear with this performance is how much time and effort had been put in by the cast of just eight in learning a complex number of lines.

Rehearsals

While their run of Neighbourhood Watch may now be over, there is no rest for The Moot House Players members as they move into rehearsals for the next production, Fallen Angels, which is directed by Henrietta Branwell.

Fallen Angels will run from Thursday July 6 to Saturday July 8 at 8pm.

Moot House Players welcomes everyone with an interest in theatre whether it be on stage or behind the scenes.

Tears and laughter at race extravaganza

Harlow Race for Life £70,000 fundraising target

By William Mata

william.mata@hertssexnews.co.uk

HUNDREDS of women collectively raised thousands for Cancer Research UK by completing Race for Life in Harlow Town Park.

Nearly 900 ran and walked the annual 5km and 10km events on Sunday and donations, which are still coming in, could reach an amazing £70,000.

Courtney Culverhouse, Cancer

Research UK's events manager for Harlow, said: "Lifesaving research is being funded right now thanks to Harlow women running, jogging or walking at Race for Life.

Incredible

"We're hoping to raise an incredible £70,000 from the event.

"Our participants play a crucial role in helping to turn discoveries made in the lab into better treatments for patients in Harlow and across the UK.

"We'd like to thank everyone who took part in the event on Sunday."

This year, the 16th edition, 882 people took part. Participants are being asked to pay in their sponsorship as soon as possible.

This can be done online, by phone or in person at a charity shop.

Miss Culverhouse added: "The atmosphere on the day was electric – full of emotion, courage, tears and laughter – as hundreds of like-minded ladies came together to unite in the fight against cancer.

Sponsorship

"Many people don't realise that their entry fee only covers the cost of the event. It's the sponsorship money that really makes a difference."

The new bird viewing platform at Parndon Lock Meadows

New bird viewing platform takes centre stage at ancient floodplain

A POPULAR Harlow wildlife site is a stage closer to being restored, with the installation of a new bird viewing platform.

Ancient floodplain Parndon Lock Meadows is being rejuvenated in a project between Harlow Council and the Land Trust.

Volunteers, who are installing parts of the project, all attended a celebration event recently as the viewing platform was opened.

In addition 300 meters of previously neglected hedgerow has been restored using around 1,400 mixed hedgerow trees.

Charles Langtree, estates manager at the Land Trust, is delighted.

He said: "It's been wonderful to help transform Parndon Lock Meadows over the past few years and see so many people getting involved in looking after and enhancing the site.

"Through our partnership with Harlow Council, the dedicated volunteers and expert contractors, we're sure that this fantastic site will continue to thrive."

Dealer's bid to dump drugs as police closed in

Cannabis and cocaine thrown in street

By Richard Duggan
star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A JURY has returned a guilty verdict for a Harlow drug dealer who had admitted selling cannabis but denied dealing cocaine.

Furruchi Tong, 31, appeared before Chelmsford Crown Court having been charged with possession of cocaine with intent to supply.

Possession

At an earlier stage in the trial, Tong, of Lower Meadows, told the jury he had already pleaded guilty to possession of cannabis with intent to supply.

The court heard that on May 25, 2016, Tong had been arrested following a chase with police in Bowhill Way, Harlow.

Tong had attempted to discard several bags of cannabis and cocaine by throwing them as he ran up the street.

When police searched the flat

Chelmsford Crown Court

where Tong had been staying, they discovered weighing scales, small bags to store the drugs and £1,980 in cash.

The property, on Hodings Road, was that of his ex-partner.

Tong told the court he was a cocaine addict who ingested one to two grams of the substance on a daily basis.

While giving evidence, he also told the jury he was a cannabis dealer, but maintained the cocaine in his possession when arrested was for personal use.

During the case, prosecutor Karl Volz said: "Might it just be that he had 'deal-able' amount of cannabis and cocaine on him. Might it be that he was dealing not just cannabis but cocaine?"

"That's why he had the amounts on him and why he had so much cash."

Defending Tong, Tom Cockroff told the court how his client came to use cocaine after the death of his grandfather in 2014.

Mr Cockroff also explained Tong kept the cocaine in precise doses in small bags to monitor his use.

Unanimous

But the jury returned a unanimous guilty verdict shortly after retiring.

Tong, who has been remanded in custody, will next appear at Chelmsford Crown Court to be sentenced in the week commencing May 26.

GENERAL ELECTION

Activist disrupts Tory's road rally

Challenge from gay rights campaigner

By William Mata

william.mata@hertssexnews.co.uk

A GAY rights campaigner disrupted Robert Halfon's general election campaign in a protest against the politician voting against same sex marriage.

As the Parliamentary Conservative candidate for Harlow rallied in his usual spot by the A414 on Thursday, May 11, Activist Freya Liiv pointed at him with a sign reading "votes against gay rights".

In 2013 Mr Halfon, as Harlow MP, voted against a bill to allow marriage for same sex couples. According to the protester, he moved on shortly after the exchange.

Miss Liiv, 28, of Potter Street, Harlow, is engaged to partner Shelley and said she would not be getting married soon if the bill had not been passed.

She said: "Gay marriage is one of the issues I am more passionate about and I wanted to make sure people knew that Mr Halfon had voted against it. This was both against the Conservative policy and I believe against the wants of his constituency."

She added: "At first he didn't acknowledge me but after Shelley took our photo to try and make more people aware using social media Mr Halfon packed his things up and left."

Constituents

"I believe he said something but I could not hear him over the traffic. I stated that I only wanted an MP who represented their constituents and that it was an issue close to my heart."

Miss Liiv said she is not usually a protester but would not hesitate to return to his pitch outside the Shell garage if he was to return.

Mr Halfon said in response: "I wish them well and it is good to be challenged. That is what having an election is all about.

"My priorities for Harlow remain the same.

"These are: Building an even better Harlow, cutting the cost of living, championing apprenticeships, protecting our NHS and making sure Brexit means Brexit."

After the 2013 vote Mr Halfon said he received abuse on social media.

He said at the time: "I've spent a lot of time finding out what my constituents want and exploring the pros and cons of gay marriage before making my decision. There is respect for civil partnerships – and the rights that civil partnerships convey."

"However, I also believe that people of religious faiths have rights too and that therefore, society should not attempt to redefine marriage in a way that will most likely have profound – and possibly unintended – implications for faith institutions."

Freya Liiv stands behind Robert Halfon in a protest against the Tory candidate voting against gay marriage in 2013

Ukip man aims to get town best Brexit deal

UKIP Parliamentary candidate for Harlow Mark Gough feels Brexit will have a big influence on how the town votes.

The former Conservative Harlow councillor, who joined the Euro-sceptic party in 2012, said he will also battle for a better town centre and new hospital if he becomes MP.

He said: "I think we have got a situation where one of the main issues is the EU Referendum."

"There is no Brexit vote on the ballot apart from myself. If people in Harlow want the best Brexit deal possible then I am the only show in town."

"The standard issues are the same as always."

"We have a massive issue in the town centre with empty shops. We have been promised a new shopping centre. There have been talks into the possibility of a new theatre. These are things we need to get on with as soon as possible."

Mr Gough will contest the Harlow seat alongside Robert Halfon (Conservative), Hannah Clare (Green), Geoff Seeff (Liberal Democrat) and Phil Waite (Labour).

THE PERFECT PIE

Cockney Waffle pie & Mash celebrated its grand opening on the 14th February to rave reviews and is steadily building up a firm following for a dish so typically British, and its reputation of being one of the best shops around with lovers of pie and mash would make it a tough act to beat. Taste is subjective, but I've always considered myself a connoisseur, having eaten pie & mash up and down the UK, so I was really looking forward to reviewing Cockney Waffle writes Carmen Franklin at the Harlow Star. I went for a single pie and mash with liquor and knew I was going to struggle as the portions are huge, the pie was perfectly cooked with flaky pastry on the top with a filling full of flavour and the accompanying mash was creamy with no lumps, this was the first time I'd ever been served liquor that I could actually taste the Parsley, the whole dish was so full of flavour I was determined to finish it, no matter how full I felt. I had a chance to speak with owner Jo Morgan (pictured) before sampling one of the Belgian Waffles, Jo was telling me she has big plans for Cockney Waffle pie & mash by introducing Sea food platters which are made to order with seafood of your choice, please order in advance to avoid disappointment as the platters are very popular. Jo also plans to launch a delivery service soon so you will be able to have your pie & mash delivered to your door. Cockney Waffle has launched outside catering for weddings, funerals, private parties and corporate events, contact Jo for more details. The shop which comfortably seats 40, was so clean and the staff so friendly and welcoming, owner Jo Morgan is on to a winner and there is no one more deserving because if personalities won awards Jo Morgan is deserving of every accolade available. After a breather between my Pie & mash I was now ready for my dessert of Belgian Waffle with Banana, Strawberries and cream with a toffee sauce, it looked so nice that I didn't want to destroy the presentation by diving in with my spoon, having said that I didn't waste any time digging in, it was lovely but again I couldn't finish it. For those of you yet to try Cockney Waffle Pie & Mash, I can thoroughly recommend you give it a try and don't miss out on the loyalty cards available, ask for details.

'The young should vote; they are the future and should have a say'

In the run-up to general election, the Star has launched a new campaign, #myvote, to encourage more young people to use their vote and have their say. This week town councillor Emma Toal explains why it is important to cast your vote on June 8...

HARLOW Labour member Emma Toal is encouraging young people to register to vote ahead of the general election.

With the deadline to sign up on Monday, May 22, fast approaching she said the best chance for 18 to 24 year olds to shape government policy is to take part in the electoral process.

Miss Toal, who has served as the local authority's portfolio holder for youth and community, spoke as part of the Star's #MyVote campaign to encourage young people to vote.

She said: "It is important because young people have a low turnout and (because of this) politicians are more likely to respond to older people.

"If you do not use your vote you do not have a say. In the referendum last year the turnout was much lower for young people.

"Politics is everything and affects everyone. It is the cost of education and the quality of education, it is about getting work and it can be tough to find a secure job."

In the 2015 general election 75.4 per cent of 18 to 24 year olds voted but in 2015, only 44.3 per cent took the opportunity.

The figure rose to a more encouraging 64 per cent for the EU Referendum.

Emma Toal is backing our #MyVote campaign and is urging young people to go to the polling station on June 8

Miss Toal continued: "It is important to have your say. If you don't use your voice you lose it.

"(We are seeing) more discussion around pension schemes than issues affecting young people."

Nishall Garala, founder of online campaign Big Up Harlow, said: "I do believe young people should be voting, they are the future generation and should have a say.

"If they are involved now they can make better decisions later in life."

The general election is on Thursday, June 8 but you will not be able to vote if you have not registered beforehand.

You can register online at www.gov.uk/register-to-vote

You can also vote by post. The required form can be downloaded from the same website and needs to be returned by 5pm on Tuesday (May 23).

Our reporter Conor Gogarty,

23, who launched #MyVote last week, said: "Issues which affect the young, like housing benefit haven't featured much in pre-election campaigns.

"But why would politicians pander to us if we're not voting? Until we do in greater numbers our issues are always going to be less of a priority than pensions."

Make sure you shine in our top awards for businesses

Winning any category is a boost for county firms

ENTRIES are flooding in for the Essex Business Excellence Awards 2017. Despite six months to the big day the excitement is already beginning to build with a number of businesses already putting their support behind the awards.

Entries are now open for the awards, which applaud the success of some of Essex's business elite and reward them with a night they will not forget.

The evening has become a key part of the region's event calendar and so naturally an award win brings great honour to a company.

As well as boosting the morale of everyone that works at the winning firm, an award also opens the door to a number of business opportunities, as does attending the awards.

Category sponsors include chartered accountants Rickard Luckin, Choice Finance which provides mortgage and financial solutions, luxury lifestyle magazine Inspirational London, leading building merchants Jewson and insurance brokers James Hallam.

It is thanks to the support of these dedicated and generous sponsors that ensure the awards remain prominent in the region and without them the awards simply would not exist.

Entering the awards is quick and easy, just head to the website www.essexbusinessexcellenceawards.co.uk, set up a portal and choose which categories you would like to enter.

Account

You will then be sent an email, follow the link on the email to activate your account and gain access to your applications.

A company can enter up to three categories and must have an Essex-registered address and pay business rates to an Essex authority to be eligible to enter.

The awards are centred on 13 core categories, which have been hand selected to ensure they attract the crème de la crème of the region.

Entries for the awards are open until Friday, August 25 so there is plenty of time for you to get involved.

Choice Finance

At Choice Finance we are proud to be sponsoring the Essex Business Excellence Awards 2017. Although this is only our first time, we expect to continue sponsoring such events in the future.

Being a young company we are always looking at ways to network and increase our exposure in the market. The Essex Business Excellence Awards 2017 seemed a perfect fit with our company ethos, recognising small and local businesses with a like-minded attitude. We are excited for you all to meet us, are delighted to get to know the organisations and meet the nominees.

Matthew Pennell
Managing director of Choice Finance Mortgages

James Hallam

James Hallam Limited is delighted to be sponsoring the New Business of the Year category at the Essex Business Excellence Awards in November.

We have been privileged enough to be involved with the awards for five years now, however the New Business category is a new one for us and we are very much looking forward to judging and meeting some of the new and exciting businesses across Essex. James Hallam Limited is a leading independent Insurance broker based in Chelmsford. We make it our priority to understand every detail of our clients' businesses which gives us a great platform to judge these awards.

Graham Whyatt, head of affinity and SME, and Jackie Knight, group marketing manager, will be heading up this year's judging team.

very best businesses that Essex has to offer and these awards are another perfect opportunity to do so. The region is so diverse and there are so many examples of true business excellence across all industries.

The awards benefit businesses directly, they boost morale and therefore increase productivity and drive amongst each and every employee. Good luck to all the nominees.

Roxanna Hayes
Operations director

Rickard Luckin

It gives me great pleasure to confirm that Rickard Luckin will once again be taking part in the Essex Business Excellence awards, sponsoring the Business Entrepreneur of the Year award in 2017.

We take a strong interest in local success stories and are always keen to celebrate business excellence achieved through hard work and commitment.

Since our firm's successful merger in 2015, Rickard Luckin has gone from strength to strength as we instil our unique passionate, personal and professional approach in everything we do. We are very excited about helping to discover the next local business star and we very much look forward to judging the entries.

Wortley Byers

Wortley Byers Law is once again delighted to be celebrating the successes of our local business community.

As judge and sponsor of the Essex Business Excellence Awards for the last three years, we have seen the benchmark raised time and time again and are excited to see what heights of excellence the businesses of Essex will take us to in 2017.

As category sponsor of Company of the Year and also commemorating our 50th anniversary of providing professional services, Wortley Byers Law looks forward to honouring local business achievements and double celebrations with worthy winners.

LOCAL ELECTION

Thanks for your votes

I WOULD like to thank all those residents from Old Harlow/Churchgate Street, Mark Hall and Nettswell who showed faith in me and voted for me in last week's county council elections. I will endeavour to represent them and all the other residents who did not vote for me to my best ability at County Hall for the next four years.

Councillor Mike Garnett
Wyldwood Close, Old Harlow

Four Tory councilors

WE would like to thank Harlow residents for electing four Conservative councillors to represent the town at Essex County last Thursday.

Residents have given their support to a party which brought real choice to the people, and is now delivering on the decision they made, and will negotiate the best possible deal for Brexit. Essex County has and will continue to work closely with Harlow as it evolves in the coming years, to provide infrastructure to support new development and new employment, such as the Enterprise Zone and Public Health England. Your four county councillors will ensure the town's voice is heard loud and clear at County Hall.

GENERAL ELECTION

Corbyn rightly against bombs

THERE are many issues at stake in the forthcoming general election. No doubt it will be dominated by domestic policies, with foreign affairs taking a back seat as usual. But the world is in a parlous state, with, among many other problems, apparently unending conflicts, in particular in the Middle East, having global and local repercussions. How the UK can contribute to putting an end to these conflicts should be high on the agenda. It will not be by cosying up to US President Trump, with his belligerent and erratic outbursts, as Boris Johnson has done. His statement that the UK could join any US military action against Syria without parliamentary approval is outrageous and rightly prompted an outcry from politicians from across the spectrum. The idea that provoking Russia by bombing its ally, Assad's Syria, will help to stop the killing in that benighted country, is beyond madness. Indeed, the belief that bombing anyone makes us safer should have been discredited at least since 9/11. Yet he was not repudiated by Theresa May.

Greyhound racing is popular, but concern has been raised for the plight of the animals

Impossible though it may seem, the ultimate solution in Syria can only be a political one. Jeremy Corbyn is absolutely right to oppose bombing and emphasise the role of diplomacy. He must say it more loudly, and more often, until it is really heard and understood by the nation. This is not being "weak on defence". On the contrary, working constructively for conflict resolution is a strength not a weakness. A foreign policy based on this approach should be an election winner for any thinking person.

Frank Jackson
Harlow Labour Party

DUMPED FREEZER

Lack of respect for our town

HOW disappointing that, in the year we celebrate Harlow's 70th birthday, some members of the community have so little respect for the town and its residents that they dump a small chest freezer in the middle of the baseball court area of the Potter Street Splash Park overnight!

Apart from the cost of removal it was a health and safety hazard.

Inquisitive children would have opened the lid, considered climbing inside to hide etc.

What a pity that the effort it must have taken to carry it from the road to the middle of the court couldn't have been more usefully employed in helping to keep our town tidy.

We are trying to make Harlow a place to be proud of, and to teach children to respect their surroundings.

This mindless behaviour

doesn't help!!

EU ACCOUNTS

Where has the money gone?

BEFORE we even consider paying money to Europe we must demand a site of the approved accounts that have doubly checked. These accounts have not been passed for at least 14 years and maybe longer.

It makes one wonder where all this money has been going.

David Johnson
Address not supplied

WELFARE CUTS

We all pay one way or another

HARLOW Conservative MP Robert Halfon has claimed that the "most vulnerable" have been protected from his government's welfare cuts. The evidence belies this claim.

In 2014 the Harlow Star reported a 39 per cent increase in the theft of food from shops and a 67 per cent increase in referrals to Harlow Foodbank.

There were 5,716 children living in poverty in Harlow in 2015, according to an analysis by End Child Poverty. This is 24.5 per cent of the children of the town. The Institute for Fiscal Studies calculates that the number of children in poverty in the UK will have risen from 2.3 to 3.6 million by 2020 as a direct result of tax and benefit decisions made since 2010.

Figures produced by the Trussell Trust showed that in 2015-16 its food banks gave out enough food to feed more than 1.1 million people. A report by the All Party Parliamentary Group suggested that the true scale of hunger in the UK could be far greater, as more than half of emergency food is supplied by independent food banks and other organisations not covered by the Trussell Trust's figures.

People who cannot work because of illness are being found "fit for work" and having their benefits stopped. Some have died before their appeal is heard.

Housing benefit cuts are forcing people with young children to leave London – a process Boris Johnson referred to as "social cleansing".

Last month the government cut the long-term rate of Employment and Support Allowance, which is paid to those unable to work for health reasons, by £30 per week. It is now £73 per week.

In the forthcoming general election we will have the opportunity to reject the misery and social division foisted upon us by Halfon and May, and embrace the politics of prosperity, fairness, and justice offered by the Labour Party of Jeremy Corbyn. I suggest that we all take that opportunity and vote for Phil Waite to be our next MP.

MIKE DANVERS

Tireless and knowledgeable

LIKE many others in the North West of Harlow I am very sorry to hear that we shall no longer be represented by Mike Danvers on Essex County Council.

Mike has been a tireless, knowledgeable and resourceful presence at County, taking up the cause of Harlow Residents on many fronts. I personally am grateful for his dogged attempt to get the flooding in London Road sorted out. He was the best sort of public representative and I hope he finds something equally useful to do.

Barbara Burge

THINGS TO DO

Discover town treasures

HARLOW has its unknown treasures. Two of them were brought together on Thursday last week at Harlow Playhouse.

Tucked away at the North-East of Harlow is the Gibberd Garden, the extraordinary hideaway of the man who shaped all our lives as Harlow people living in this town as our "Master Planner". That unique wild garden is the first hidden treasure, left by him to the people of Harlow when he died back in 1984, preserved by a team of dedicated volunteers, and open to all of us.

The second hidden treasure is the Harlow-based performing group called Razed Roof, which brings together people with a range of learning and other disabilities, and others, and creates dramatic productions. This time the production was called "Unfolding", part of the string of events happening in Harlow to mark the 70 years since the New Town was initiated, and Sir Freddie was appointed as "consultant architect planner". It set out to share the story of Sir Freddie's garden, which he shaped, alongside his town, for the rest of his life.

It did it through a series of performed interpretations of some of the works of art scattered around the garden. Not just works of art in the normal sense – one of the most striking sections was the one about the giant hogweed that flourishes in the garden, and needs to be treated with extreme caution.

There were songs, there were dances, there were comic interludes. It was enormous fun, and at times strangely moving. If the idea of bringing together such a varied group of people sounds like a worthy activity to be endured rather than enjoyed, think again. This really was one of the most enjoyable experiences I have had at the Playhouse in many years.

This was a one-off performance at the Playhouse – but you still might have another chance of seeing Unfolding, this time in the actual setting of the Gibberd Garden, alongside the actual works of art in the garden (you could see the giant hogweed too – though don't touch it!)

That will be on the afternoon of Sunday, May 21. But there is only room for a very small attendance at this Promenade Performance. I've booked already, and am looking forward to it.

But if you can't get a ticket, a version of the last Razed Roof production, about the sinking of the Lusitania, is available on YouTube, and perhaps that might happen with Unfolding too – it certainly deserves it.

Kevin McGrath

GREYHOUNDS

Charity should think again

LAST week's letter inviting people to Harlow Greyhound Stadium from Heather Lewis, to raise funds for her Charity the Royal Air Force Association, is a complete denial of what happens to the stars of the show the poor put upon greyhound.

Yes I can understand they want to raise funds for their charity, but doing so on the back of the poor maligned greyhound is certainly a no! No!

They are hurt maimed and killed at that stadium, all in the guise of entertainment, it is disgraceful! And the use of a brass band certainly compounds the abuse as they wait in their kennels before they are asked to put their lives on the line, all for the benefit for a night out for the ill-informed.

Don't forget; "You Bet They Die"

CRUNCH BUNCH

INGREDIENTS

180g soft dates, stoned
360ml runny honey
250g rolled oats
60g pecans, roughly chopped
60g dried apricots, roughly chopped
30g sunflower seeds
120g unsweetened desiccated coconut
2tbsp chia seeds
Vegetable or sunflower oil, for greasing the tins

METHOD

1. Heat your oven to 180°C/Gas mark 4.
2. Put the dates in a small saucepan with the honey. Bring to the boil then blitz in a blender to a smooth paste. Leave to cool.
3. Mix the oats, pecans, apricots, sunflower seeds, coconut and chia seeds with the date paste. Mix well.
4. Line a brownie tin (approx 23cm square) with baking paper and brush it with oil. Pour the granola mixture on top, pressing it into the corners and make sure it is flat(ish) on top.

GRANOLA BARS (MAKES 12-14)

5. Bake for 40 minutes until lightly brown on top, then remove and leave to cool completely.

6. Cut into bars and try not to eat them all, or you won't have any left for your breakfast!

7. These granola bars take a bit of time to make, so don't start them 10 minutes before the school run! Make them the night before instead. They will last for up to five days in an airtight container.

■ DAD says... When measuring things like honey or syrup, coat the measuring jug, bowl or spoon with a thin layer of vegetable or sunflower oil beforehand so all the sticky stuff gets into the mixture rather than left behind.

Tilly Ramsay - daughter of Gordon - is a chip off the old block. As she releases her first cookbook, ELLA WALKER meets the teenager to talk food, fame and family

It's utter chaos when I'm in the kitchen with dad!

TILLY Ramsay is only 15 and already has her own TV show and cookbook, but she's still not in charge of the kitchen at home. In fact, when it comes to doing the washing-up, she says: "I try, but mum always says, 'You're doing it wrong,' then she takes over!"

Youngest daughter of swearsy, hot-headed celebrity chef Gordon Ramsay, 50, and former school teacher turned cookery book writer Tana, 41, Tilly's Kitchen Takeover is her first book and combines recipes from Tilly's CBBC series, Matilda And The Ramsay Bunch.

It's been designed for complete cookery beginners, whether they're kids or not, so don't expect the pages strewn with Michelin star-worthy dishes - this is food Tilly-style, with only the occasional practical hint from her dad (who apparently doesn't swear at home) woven into the book.

"My dad wasn't overly involved, he just helped me with a few things. There were a few recipes I couldn't quite nail, and I said, 'What would you do? How would you improve this?' and he really helped me there, but he wasn't pushing me to do any of his stuff," explains Tilly, who lives in London and California. "I would come to him for help, instead of him coming and telling me what to do."

It's just as well they didn't create the book together; when

Tilly Ramsay.
Inset below,
dad Gordon

they do join forces in the kitchen, things can get out of hand. "I'd say it's utter chaos when we're together. There's a lot of mess, we're very loud together, we sing, we have a lot of fun, we boss each other around."

"I once told him to, 'Please get out of my kitchen!'" says Tilly with a grin. "He nearly made me set stuff on fire because he was distracting me. I shut the door and just said, 'Excuse me!'"

Tilly started in the kitchen when she was still tiny, chipping in when her parents made dinner, and that hasn't stopped. "It's funny seeing where

I've come from," she admits, considering how she's progressed from helping her mum ice cupcakes aged four, to becoming a teen cookbook writer and independently creating tiered rainbow cakes with multicoloured sponges.

"I've practised so much," says Tilly, and despite criticisms of nepotism, it is difficult to knock her work ethic.

Summer holidays are spent filming The Ramsay Bunch, while Tilly fits in TV appearances, recipe writing and book commitments around school.

"It's really easy to manage because my mum makes sure I do my school work," she explains.

And anyway, filming in Las Vegas, yoga paddleboarding and training with Cirque du Soleil, isn't exactly painful.

"I think of it as fun," says Tilly, who has grown used to being on telly - from appearing on The Late Late Show with her dad and James Corden, to cooking her All-American Chili on This Morning ("Phillip and Holly liked it").

"The first few times I did it, it's obviously quite scary, but now I know it's good just to be myself."

Want to join Tilly's gang, and get the kids involved with cooking? Try one of these three super simple and healthy recipes...

■ MATILDA & The Ramsay Bunch: Tilly's Kitchen Takeover by Tilly Ramsay is published in hardback by Hodder & Stoughton, priced £20. Pictures by Gemma Watts

I HAVE no idea how wine experts can taste, taste, taste all day long! Many of the award stickers you see on wines are based on judgments from people who have blind tasted wines for hours on end.

It was my turn last week. Not to declare awards, but to pronounce my favourite wines out of a selection of over 40 bottles, their identities hidden by grey plastic.

Wow, my tastebuds and senses were tired by the end of it.

The team from Wines of Chile (winesofchile.org) organised a Chile Challenge and I joined over 30 people to blind taste 41 wines and declare our top four (avoiding a couple of rogue non-Chilean wines!).

Master of Wine Richard Hemming gave a quick outline of

RAISE A GLASS

WITH JANE CLARE

Chile before we began. He explained that Chilean winemakers are being innovative at the moment; he suggested grapes to look out for are pail, muscat and cinsault - yes, I say, go and seek some!

I know Majestic sells a decent pail, Morande Reserva One to One Pais 2016, which is £8.99 or £6.99 in a buy six deal. It is similar to beaujolais in style.

But back to the challenge. The overall top four Chilean wines, as voted for by our little blind tasting group, were:

■ 1st: Errázuriz Max Reserva Carmenere (RRP £15.90, amazon.co.uk, Asdaonlineandvinowines.co.uk) I blindly said: Spicy plums, chocolate, pepper and earthiness.

■ 2nd: Carmen D.O. Quijada No 1 Semillon Sauvignon Blanc (RRP £25 - this has limited availability in the UK - ring Santa Rita Estates 01865 404 700). I blindly said: Lemon, a murmur of spice, a touch of honey and some savoury notes.

■ 3rd: Luis Felipe Edwards LFE 900 Malbec (RRP £30, houseoftownend.com). I blindly said: Dark red, powerful, blackberries, spice.

■ 4th: Pérez Cruz Limited Edition Carmenere (RRP £14.99, wineman.co.uk, strictlywine.co.uk, greatwinesdirect.co.uk, nywines.co.uk) I blindly said: Hedgerow fruit, plums, vanilla, spice.

■ Also in my glass... Aldi has added four Sicilian wines to its range and three of them are under a fiver.

The Fire Tree Sicilian Vermentino 2016 (£4.99, 13% abv) has honeysuckle aromas together with a ripple of citrus. It is juicy, with refreshing citrus and acidity to taste. It's a sunshine wine. Today it's sunny - I'll be taking a glass into the garden in a minute.

The Fire Tree Sicilian Pinot Grigio Sauvignon Blanc 2016, (£4.69, 12.5% abv) is a blend of pinot grigio and sauvignon blanc. I thought the combination was pretty flat to be honest, with the vermentino winning on the flavour stakes. This wine is what it is, chill it for a while and its low-key citrus and gooseberry vibe will be fine for a cheap summer wine to take to parties.

Other wines in the range include The Fire Tree Sicilian Riserva 2013 (£7.99) and The Fire Tree Sicilian Nero D'Avola Appassimento 2016 (£4.99) and they're available in store and online (aldi.co.uk).

FEEL THE HEAT

TILLY'S ALL-AMERICAN CHILLI (SERVES 4)

INGREDIENTS

1 onion, roughly chopped
4 garlic cloves, peeled and crushed
Drizzle of vegetable or sunflower oil, for frying
450g beef or vegetarian mince
225g tomato puree
1 x 400g tin of chopped tomatoes
250ml chicken, beef or vegetable stock
1tbsp chilli powder
2tsp ground cumin
Salt and pepper
1 x 400g tin of kidney beans (drained)
Sour cream, to serve
Grated cheddar cheese, to serve
Spring onions, sliced, to serve

METHOD

1. Drizzle the oil into a large saucepan and place over a medium-high heat. When it is hot, add the onion and garlic and cook until soft.
2. Add the mince to the pan and use a wooden spatula or spoon to break it into smaller bits and keep it moving around the pan until it has all browned.
3. Stir in the tomato puree and cook for about five minutes before pouring in the tinned tomatoes. Let them bubble together.
4. Pour in the stock and add the chilli powder and ground cumin, then season with salt and pepper and give everything a really good stir.

5. Bring up to the boil and then turn down the heat so the chilli is gently simmering. Leave to simmer for 30 to 40 minutes, stirring from time to time to check it isn't drying out (if it is, add a little more stock or water).
6. Stir in the kidney beans and cook for 10 minutes until warmed through.
7. Serve with sour cream, cheese and spring onions.

INGREDIENTS

2 green apples, cored
2 red apples, cored
2tbsp unsalted pistachios, chopped
100g chocolate spread
100g smooth peanut butter
2tbsp freeze-dried strawberries
2tbsp dried blueberries
2tbsp flaked almonds
2tbsp yoghurt-covered raisins

METHOD

1. Slice the cored apples in half across the middle and then each half in half again across the middle so each apple ends up becoming four rings with holes in the middle.
2. Spread one side of the apple circles with either chocolate spread or peanut butter and lay them out on a plate.
3. To finish, sprinkle the apples with different combinations of the freeze-dried fruits, nuts and raisins.
■ TILLY'S tip: Some of my favourite combinations are chocolate spread with pistachios and almonds, and peanut butter with yoghurt-coated raisins and freeze-dried strawberries, but get experimenting – you're in charge here!

ALSO OUT THIS WEEK

KING ARTHUR: LEGEND OF THE SWORD (15) ★★☆☆

Several years in the making, director Guy Ritchie's reworking of Arthurian legend is an interminable bore.

A lumbering script, co-written by Joby Harold and Lionel Wigram, pickpockets elements of an origin story from the biblical tale of Moses, Robin Hood and the Marvel Comics universe, with an eye to kick-starting a multi-film mythology filled with familiar characters from olde worlde legend.

Thunderous action sequences appear to have been reconstituted from the cutting-room floor of other blockbusters: rampaging giant elephants in battle armour in the opening melee look suspiciously like hulking Oliphaunts from The Lord Of The Rings: The Return Of The King, and a monstrous magical serpent slithers just like Lord Voldemort's pet Nagini in the Harry Potter franchise.

The hero's obligatory training montage is rendered as a superfluous jaunt to a magical realm called the Darklands, where Arthur hones his swordsmanship against a dizzying menagerie of computer-generated snakes, bats, rats and wolves.

It's a triumph of visually arresting yet soulless digital might, awash with dodgy East End geezers who litter Ritchie's oeuvre, including his revisionist take on Sherlock Holmes with Robert Downey Jr and Jude Law.

Female characters are treated with casual disdain: reduced to witches, wenches or eminently expendable spouses and offspring, who can be slain to facilitate the flimsy plot.

Uther Pendragon (Eric Bana), king of the Britons, is betrayed by his power-hungry brother Vortigern (Jude Law, pictured), who forges a deadly pact with dark sorcerer Mordred (Rob Knighton).

The king is slain, but not before he can send his first-born son Arthur (Charlie Hunnam) down river to Londinium to be raised in a brothel.

Flanked by mates Back Lack (Neil Maskell) and Wet Stick (Kingsley Ben-Adir), Arthur blossoms into a strapping hunk, who is blissfully unaware of his destiny.

The heir apparent subsequently pulls Excalibur from a stone and is sentenced to death by Vortigern and his snarling henchman Mischief John (Geoff Bell).

Thankfully, a mysterious enchantress known only as The Mage (Astrid Berges-Frisbey) joins forces with Uther's exiled general Sir Bedivere (Djimon Hounsou) and expert archer Goosefat Bill (Aiden Gillen) to save Arthur from the executioner's chopping block.

King Arthur: Legend Of The Sword is swashbuckling tosh, hamstrung by lifeless performances, clunky dialogue and inert screen chemistry between Hunnam and Berges-Frisbey.

Ritchie invigorates dull storytelling with trademark hyperkinetic brio and snappy editing, plus a throwaway cameo by David Beckham (replete with disfiguring facial make-up), who is just as wooden as the uprights he occasionally struck during his glory days with Manchester United.

Sadly, this is two tedious and dispiriting hours of own goals.

Jason Sudeikis as Oscar and Anne Hathaway as Gloria in Colossal

The beast within

COLOSSAL (15)

Spanish writer-director Nacho Vigalondo plays with madness in his brilliantly bonkers homage to Godzilla, which projects the monster-mashing mayhem through the lens of an offbeat indie romantic comedy.

Thematically, there are faint echoes of M. Night Shyamalan's unconventional superhero film Unbreakable, but Colossal is very much its own beast, anchored by an eye-catching performance from Anne Hathaway as a struggling alcoholic, whose recovery coincides with the emergence of a towering creature on the other side of the world.

Jason Sudeikis also plays against type to delicious effect as a bar owner, whose jealousy conjures something scarier and far more destructive than a green-eyed behemoth.

The leads enjoy simmering on-screen chemistry that lights the touchpaper on cataclysmic events on two continents, positing tantalising questions about the thin line separating unlikely heroes from villains.

Predictability has been largely eradicated from the picture's warped DNA and we take great delight from the twists and turns in Vigalondo's fantastical narrative, house, which has been vacant since they retired to sunnier climes.

By chance, she crosses paths with childhood friend Oscar (Sudeikis) and makes insensitive small talk about the health of his mother.

"Don't you remember? You were still living here. You went to the funeral," he responds with bemusement.

Regardless, nice guy Oscar donates unwanted furniture to help Gloria get back on her feet and offers her a job at his bar, which he inherited from his father.

"It's like a Wes Anderson movie in here," she coos, surveying a western-themed area untouched by refurbishment.

Gloria begins to turn her life around and she forges friendships with Oscar's buddies Garth (Tim Blake Nelson) and Joel (Austin Stowell).

Breaking news about the sudden appearance of a giant creature in Seoul sends shockwaves around the world, and a dumbfounded Gloria discovers she is connected to this horned harbinger of doom. Flashbacks to a traumatic childhood incident reveal the catalyst for this incredible meeting of human and monster minds.

Colossal is an engrossing and intimate character study with grand ambitions, realised in broad strokes by Vigalondo and his special effects team.

Hathaway welcomes us into her character's delirium, compelling us to root for her as she confronts her addiction head-on and demons closer to home.

Sudeikis is a wonderful foil and there is solid support from Stevens, Nelson and Stowell as the unsuspecting men caught in the crossfire of a truly epic battle of the sexes.

Two Speed Crossword

This two-speed crossword has two sets of clues, but just one grid. If you can't solve the Cryptic clue, try the Quick.

Cryptic

Across

- The results of having property (7)
- Let row be about builder's tool (6)
- Bars with an irritating effect (7)
- Where the theologian is in distance (6)
- Immature proposal (6)
- I hold the front place from which metal is taken (4,4)
- Charm lit as strange fellow put it in front (8)
- When in a state of depression the result can be illuminating (6)
- The price one has to pay for an attack (6)
- How to exhaust the economy? (7)
- Turning point is twice taken by creditor (6)
- Many behold certain shut down (7)

Down

- When the saint becomes like Uriah Heep, he'll err (7)
- Forester, do get up: there's a lady around! (7)
- Ambled round to a madhouse (6)
- Predict free toll will be taken (8)
- The scope of former camping gear (6)
- Browned off with being beaten (6)
- Not certain to be flying (2,3,3)
- What the reporter says when he wants to make his mark? (7)
- Acute grammatical timing? (7)
- 50 wives turn (6)
- Supplies rushed into ship (6)
- Where to abide and be a natural part? (6)

Scribble pad

Codeword

This puzzle has no clues. Instead, every number printed in the grid represents a letter, with the same number always representing the same letter. For example, if 8 turns out to be a V, you can write in V wherever a square contains 8. Using your knowledge of words, complete the puzzle.

A B C D E F G H I J K L M N O P Q R S T U V W X Y Z

Wordsquare

Give yourself ten minutes to find as many words as possible using the letters in the grid. Each word must use the central letter and at least 3 others, and letters may be used only once. You cannot use plurals, foreign words or proper nouns, but verb forms ending in 's' are permitted. There is one 9-letter word to be found.

How you rate:
15 words - average; 25 words - good; 35 words - very good; 40 or more - excellent.

Quick

Across

- Belongings (7)
- Hand tool (6)
- Rasping (7)
- Centre (6)

EXCITING FEATURES AT FOREST HALL BARN

Forest Hall Barn is a beautifully presented converted barn situated in this very small select cul-de-sac of just three homes on the edge of Stansted village yet within walking distance of the mainline station.

The property is offered in first class order throughout and the accommodation is arranged over two floors with a reception hallway with oakwood flooring, dual aspect sitting room with an open fireplace, separate dining room leading through to a utility area and ground floor cloakroom.

The delightful fitted kitchen/breakfast room has built in twin ovens and combination microwave, fridge, induction hob and extractor hood, dishwasher, tiled floor with under floor heating and french doors leading on to the rear garden.

A split level landing leads off to the family bathroom and the three double bedrooms and the property offers an abundance of charm and character with exposed timbers and brickwork.

To the front of the property there is a block paved driveway providing off street parking with side pedestrian access leading to the mature garden measuring approximately 60' deep x 40' in width with a west facing aspect, sun terrace to the immediate rear of the property.

The remainder of the garden is mainly laid to lawn with access to the double garage with twin opening doors with power and light connected and to the rear of the garage there is a home office/games room with power and light.

Contact Mullucks Wells, The Guild House, Water Lane, Bishops Stortford, CM23 2JZ or call 01279 755400.

HOME STYLE

With Chris Read

Sleeping beauty

There's nothing more restful than a pretty boudoir, so here are some pointers to help you sleep in style

In design terms, bedrooms are a bit of a b, if you'll pardon the initial. The average standard size for the main bedroom in Britain is 3x4m, and when you put anything from a double bed size upwards into that space, there's not a lot of room left over.

Apart from the fact that most of us need to have our clothes storage in the bedroom too, that bed is one enormous expanse of duvet or bedspread filling the eye.

So what are the key design issues to take into account and how can we make these spaces feel warm and inviting without compromising on practicality? The things that are important here are the grittier issues of design – space planning and practicality; getting proportions correct.

Where possible, don't have the door behind the bed [our ancestral self is worried about the wolves and the tribe down the valley attacking].

Head boards should provide a comfortable rest for your back and head when sitting up in bed; avoid footers to your bed unless you like your bedding tucked in and you never sleep with your feet over the end of the mattress. And unless you're an exhibitionist, don't have full mirrored wardrobe doors in front of the bed. You'll scare yourself on the way to the bathroom in the night.

Built in wardrobes always take up less visual space and provide more storage than free-standing ones and you can go the way of the expensive but luxurious built in wardrobe system – I rather covet this one by Wharfedale – or cheap and cheerful as I did by building a simple carcass (not personally, you understand).

This head board from Living It Up has enfolding wings, which don't impede access to a bedside table. Those lights are high enough to avoid accidental strangulation!!

Top: Emulate the stars with a beautiful Lucienne Hollywood mirror from Illuminated Mirrors. Above: The grandly named Valet No.9 in classy walnut is from the Gentleman's Valet Company

Add a rail and a few wire drawers sets from a well-known Swedish company and Bob's your uncle. I have a small bedroom, with very little space, so have eschewed doors altogether and use curtains instead, with a good metal track so that they swish across easily. Oddly, they spend most of their time on my husband's half (or more accurately, eighth) of the wardrobe.

I'd always go for carpet rather than hard flooring, both for comfort on bare feet and noise levels. I have had clients say they prefer hard flooring because carpets trap the dust, but unless you vacuum every day, trapped dust is better than dust being blown around.

If you do go for hard flooring and add rugs, do make sure they have a non-slip underlay.

Bedding can be a minefield. In order to give some interest to that acre of bed, a lot of people like patterned bedding. Attractive bedspreads can be easier to find, but most people have duvets.

Good reasonably priced patterned duvet covers that work with your décor are hard to come by, so snap them up if you find them. Mind, this is one thing I'm a purist about (unless it's water and no ice in my whisky, but that's another article) and I want plain white cotton or linen bedding.

Lighting and electrics are a big issue and should be considered early on in the design process. Making sure you have sockets where you need them sounds obvious, but is very easy to overlook and can scupper your great design scheme – extension leads are not the best look, nor the safest.

Think in layers of light, from rushing out to work on a dark winter morning, where strong overhead light means you begin to wake up, even if it makes you look like death in the mirror. So good, reasonably flattering lighting is important for the dressing table and the best is the all-round lighting of a classic Hollywood mirror, such as this one by Illuminated Mirrors. You can also get good backlit ones if this look is not for you.

Bedside lighting is important but there are lots of options: wall lights; mini reading lights so your partner can sleep while you start another chapter; classic table lamps, two ceiling hung pendant lights – just make sure they not positioned to strangle you when you get out of bed in the night.

For furniture, buy the best mattress, not necessarily the best bed, you can afford. If you have the space, it feels very generous to have two chests of drawers instead of standard sized bedside tables. If not, there are some wonderfully styled smaller chests.

If you want a dressing table consider, using a small desk instead – you'll find there is greater choice.

It's always useful to have chairs in a bedroom, whether it's for sitting to put on your socks or just as a night time dumping ground for clothes. There are some wonderful space saving gentlemen's valet stands available, which work just as well for ladies in my view!

There are other, less tangible design aspects for a good night's sleep – such as banning televisions and, if the light affects you adding blackout linings to blinds and curtains.

Dang, I've hardly mentioned how to make it look good – that may need to be another article. Sweet dreams.

STUDIO FLAT WHERE ROCK ICONS RECORDED

Wessex Recording Studios is where some of the world's most famous rock and roll albums were recorded, including 1979's London Calling by the Clash, 1977's Never Mind the Bollocks by the Sex Pistols and Ringo Starr's 1970 debut solo album Sentimental Journey.

The studio is also where Queen recorded the single We Will Rock You, during which staff were asked to jump as one on the floor to help create its signature percussive backing track, and Bohemian Rhapsody.

Other bands and artists that have used the studio include the Rolling Stones, The Pretenders, Marianne Faithfull, Slade, Pete Townsend, Kylie Minogue, REM, Coldplay, The Stone Roses and David Bowie, to pick out a few.

The building started out in 1881 as a church hall but was converted during the early 1960s into a recording studio and then in 1965 bought by Beatles producer George Martin.

He helped make Wessex Recording Studios one of the best facilities in the UK, second only to Abbey Road, and used it for more than 40 years before selling the property to developer Neptune in 2003, which converted it into nine apartments.

A two-bedroom flat within the gated complex, which is the North London area of Highbury, is currently for sale at £730,000.

It's a first-floor flat with an open plan living area, two bathrooms and windows that feature the old church hall's stone mullions in several of its rooms. More information is available from agent Hotblack Desiato on 0207 288 9696.

Modest haven from the spotlight Marilyn bought for just $75,000 now on the market for $6.9m

The house where Marilyn Monroe spent her final months has come on the market for $6.9m. The unassuming four-bedroom house in the Brentwood neighbourhood of Hollywood in Los Angeles was bought in January 1962 by the Some Like It Hot actress after she returned to her home city in a doomed bid to shake off substance abuse problems, depression and her recent divorce from playwright Arthur Miller.

By then Monroe had enjoyed a 10-year career as a sex symbol and actress but had constantly complained of being under-paid by her studio employer, 20th Century Fox. Consequently, this was the only property she ever bought in her own name and, she told Life Magazine just before her death, the hacienda-style property at the end of a quiet cul-de-sac was designed to be her private retreat from the scrutiny of the world's media. She died of a drug overdose there in August 1962.

The property, which she bought for $75,000 and was last sold in 2010 for $3.85m, is within a half-acre gated compound. The 2,624 sq ft house also has three bathrooms, an orchard and a kidney-shaped swimming pool. It

Being a global rock star with a string of hit singles and albums under your belt would, you'd hope, help make life a little easier. But Noel Gallagher is finding out that despite his worldwide fame and the millions he earned from his time in Oasis, it's still hard to shift a property in a struggling market.

London's prime central housing market has been in trouble for many months as increased Stamp Duty bills for £1m+ houses have taken their toll.

So now Noel, in a bid to help tempt some buyers to make an offer on his Little Venice house, has dropped his asking price from £11.5 to £9.95m.

Roll with it: Noel has cut his price

NOEL'S WONDER WALLS UP FOR SALE

The property, which has six-bedrooms and a large kitchen with eat-in breakfast area and a separate dining room which leads directly out onto a private patio and garden, has been on the market for nearly a year despite coming with its own mews house at the back.

Since leaving Oasis in 2009 after arguments with his brother Liam, Noel has forged a successful path as a solo artist with new band High Flying Birds. The guitarist and songwriter, 48, ditched the drugs and wild parties to settle down with second wife Sara MacDonald, buying this end-of-terrace house in London's Little Venice in 2010.

It's on the banks of Regent's Canal and he lives there with two sons, Donovan and Sunny. More information from agent knightfrank.co.uk, 0203 811 2141.

WHERE BRITAIN'S SCHINDLER CREATED HIS LIST

Everyone knows the name of Oskar Schindler through the 1993 film highlighting his efforts to save thousands of his Jewish factory workers in Poland from the Nazi gas chambers. But few realise Britain had its own Oskar Schindler, in the form of Otto Schiff.

He was a banker who during the 1930s established the Jewish Refugees Committee which helped some 60,000 people from Germany, Austria and later war-torn Europe, establish a life in the UK.

To house the committee's offices and offer shelter to arriving refugees, Schiff and his wife bought a mansion in London's Hampstead at 14 Netherhall Gardens, which after the war was turned into a care home for elderly Jewish refugees and renamed Otto Schiff House. The care home subsequently moved and the property has now been restored by developer Godfrey London and award-winning architects Squire and Partners.

The main house has been converted into seven luxury apartments while seven more have been built within a new 'pavilion' complex within its grounds.

Call Godfrey London 020 8209 3048 for details.

The mansion was a haven for refugees fleeing war in Europe

LIQUID ASSET A GRAND DESIGN

An unusual converted water tower featured in the Channel 4 property programme Grand Designs was initially described by presenter Kevin McCloud as a 'brute of a building' during the programme, which first broadcast in 2006.

Happily, he changed his mind and went on to say the conversion was one of his three favourite projects on the show. During the early noughties the couple who converted the tower, Bruno and Denise Del Tufo, initially bought a Victorian Cottage in the Kent village of Rolvenden, which happened to have a water storage tank at the end of the garden. But after being alerted to its residential potential, and the fact that it had been designed by world-famous architect Edwin Lutyens, they sold the cottage and set to converting the water tower, all under the watchful eye of Kevin McCloud.

Towering achievement: £300,000 was spent on the conversion work

The couple spent 11 months and £300,000 completing the project and at one point had to endure living with their four dogs in a tent alongside the building despite snow falls. Eleven years on and the couple, who were already retired at the time of the conversion, say they need somewhere more practical to live as they "approach their dotage".

The Water Tower, which is on the market with agent Knight Frank (01892 515035) has three bedrooms, two bathrooms, two reception rooms, a detached double garage, gravel drive, formal garden, paddock and vegetable patch. It also offers stunning views over the local countryside.

YOUR GARDEN

With Diarmuid Gavin

Water wonderful world

A pond adds another dimension to your garden... but get the balance of plants right

Ever since Charlie Dimmock performed her magic on the nation's gardens, ordinary people like you and me have succumbed to the temptation of a water feature.

Its attributes are obvious – beautiful, natural, reflective, gentle sounds, a hint of nature and a haven for wildlife.

However, unless they are done well, water features and especially ponds can become a mess. Understanding what you want to achieve and making the right decisions for your project is very important.

I've learnt this to my cost. For the past five years I've had an unfinished project – three ponds, meant to be linked together with waterfalls, two of which leak. It's my promise to myself this spring to get them in order.

I made a bad choice by being convinced to go with a polypropylene construct which is very difficult to weld together and it's proving almost impossible to find where the leaks are springing from.

I'm going to remedy this by using black butyl liner, which in my experience is the best way to go.

After sound construction, a good combination of planting is key for a healthy pond.

Oxygenators are necessary to keep the water clean as they suck the nutrients from the water which otherwise encourages a blanket of green algae.

Hornwort and the water buttercup are a good choice here, but avoid Elodea – Canadian pondweed – as this is extremely invasive. Floaters are just placed on the surface of the water and provide some additional surface cover and food for fish.

Duckweed (Lemna) and Fairy Moss

Ponds can be a wonderful little oasis in any garden but make sure children are safe

For drama you can't beat the white arum lily

TIPS for maintaining a healthy pond

- IN winter, make sure ice doesn't completely cover a pond as this will trap gas.
- REMOVE fallen leaves in winter or place a fine net over the water to stop them falling in.
- KEEP a healthy balance of plants – in spring, lift out overcrowded plants.
- YOU have to weed it like any other part of the garden – it will become submerged in green algae and weeds if left untended.

Butomus umbellatus is a perennial aquatic plant

Yellow Iris brighten up the margins of a pond

(Azolla) tend to take over very quickly and carpet the pool.

Choose instead native plants, such as frog bit (Hydrocharis), which has pretty white flowers in summer, and water soldiers (Stratiotes) with spiky foliage.

Don't worry that these plants disappear in winter – they sink to the bottom of the pond to overwinter and will re-emerge.

Waterlilies or nymphaeas are the most desirable of aquatic plants. Their large and fragrant blooms are second to none and their leaves provide superb cover for fish.

They will only flourish in still water so don't consider them if you have moving water, such as waterfalls, fountains or pumps. Plant in their baskets in a sunny spot in May or June and lift and re-pot after four years. Dwarf varieties are perfect for mini ponds or half barrels as these can be grown in shallow waters.

If your lily pond has become overgrown and the plants are congested, you will need to lift and divide them as you would perennial plants.

Choose hardy varieties as the tropical varieties won't survive our winters. Marginals naturally grow in the shallow edges of ponds so these are appropriate if you have a pond which slopes gradually or the pond has a shelf at the side which is around half a foot deep or so.

While they aren't necessary for healthy pond life, they play a role in softening the edges of a pond, creating a naturalistic effect.

There are plenty of suitable plants, such as yellow iris (Iris pseudacorus), the flowering rush (Butomus umbellatus) and pondweed, the pickerel weed, which has cylindrical spikes of blue flowers.

For drama you can't beat the white arum lily, Zantedeschia.

Finally, a note of caution. Any amount of water in a garden that children have access to can be dangerous, so think very carefully before you introduce it.

It may well be that it has to be fenced off for a couple of years or that it simply isn't appropriate. And while your own children may be well-educated about the hazards, a visiting child might not be – and it only takes a couple of minutes for something terrible to happen.

Aphids attacking a rose bush

Are you ready for the Chelsea chop?

■ THE Chelsea Flower Show is around the corner and in the garden this serves as a reminder to do the Chelsea chop – cutting back perennials in their stride to make them bushier and less likely to flop over. This reduces the need for staking and can produce more flowers. Plants that will benefit from this include heleniums, sedums, rudbeckia, phlox and solidago. You can also choose to chop some plants and leave some alone so you will have different flowering times and heights in the same border.

JOBS FOR THE WEEK

- APHIDS and greenflies are busy reproducing... check plants, especially roses, for any infestations and remove by hand. You can also use organic pest sprays.
- PLANTS grown in containers will need TLC – scrape off old compost and replace with fresh. Keep well-watered and fed fortnightly.
- IN the veg garden, lucky asparagus and rhubarb growers will be harvesting the fruits of their labour. Harvest asparagus spears before they get too tall. Harden off outdoor tomatoes and courgettes for planting out next month.

■ PAEONIES and other tall perennials are shooting up so put in supports to help show off their blooms and prevent them bending over or snapping.

■ MAKE a simple homemade fungicide by adding baking powder to water and spray on roses to prevent mildew and black spot.

Lilies make a wonderful display on any pond – but be sure to clear weeds and algae before they take over, left

ASK DIARMUID

Q I HAVE a very large jasmine plant in a pot which hasn't flowered for years, but the foliage is lovely. Do you think it would be OK to put it outside?
Betty Lodge

A I PRESUME you're talking about Jasminum officinale – the summer-flowering jasmine.

This will be fine outside, but the best position is against a nice warm sunny wall for shelter and optimum flowering. Give it a treat with liquid feed high in potash once a month and you might be surprised this summer!

Good luck.

PLANT OF THE WEEK

ALLIUM

ORNAMENTAL onions are a popular plant for mixed borders, causing delight when they pop up their purple spherical heads in May and June.

The most popular variety is Purple Sensation, which has a good deep colour and is very reliable.

If you want to go bigger, choose A.giganteum, or Globemaster, which follows a little later than Purple Sensation and has giant lilac heads. If you prefer white, try Mount Everest.

Another one to look out for is A.cernuum, totally different with very delicate flowers in deep pink. Plant in autumn in a sunny spot in fertile, well-drained soil or add some grit to heavy clay soil.

IBIZA HITS THE BIG TIME

By David Ward

Mention a new car is 87mm wider and has a wheelbase now up to 95mm but overall is 2mm shorter than the old model yet there's bags of more room inside will leave most punters confused and perhaps unable to comprehend what's going on.

The answer is to sit inside the all-new SEAT Ibiza supermini and the penny will then drop although motorists here will have to wait until July to find out for themselves because that's when this fifth generation version arrives in dealer showrooms.

But impressed most people will be because this new five-door Ibiza (the three-door and ST estate versions have been dropped) is the roomiest in the supermini class and along with its really quite stylish looks and vastly improved interior furnishings and fittings sets new levels for a car in this class.

Much of the extra space is due to the car's new platform - it's called the MQB A0 and SEAT are the first to use it in the Volkswagen Group - and with a body that 30 per cent stronger, which the engineers call 'torsional stiffness,' this latest Ibiza has a far more solid feel about it too out on the road.

SEAT are lucky in being part of VAG because they can let their parent group do all the engineering and technical homework on engines, chassis and the like and then cream off what they want allowing their own designers to come up with attractive looks and smarter interior layouts for their own branded cars.

Simple solution of course and one that has paid big dividends for the Spanish car maker, original regarded as a lame duck when VW took them over back in 1986, because SEAT had their best ever sales last year including the UK where they overtook both Spain and Germany as the biggest selling country for their cars.

Last SEAT sold over 20,000 Ibiza cars here and that figure will certainly be overtaken this year with this all round impressive new model even though it will compete against the top selling Ford Fiesta with its new model arriving here later this summer.

To start with the new Ibiza stands out from the crowd a bit with its striking bolder and stronger bodylines, sits better with its lower looks and has rather natty styled triangular front lights, all making the car shall we say more grown up.

It's certainly a totally different kind of supermini compared to the first edition Ibiza I drove down in Marbella back on the original press launch back in 1984 designed by the famous Italian Giorgio Giugiaro when it was regarded then as avant garde.

Naturally times (and tastes) have moved on but this latest Ibiza incarnation is really impressive not only because of the vastly improved interior space and trim levels but the way the car actually drives, which of course is a crucial factor for any motorists.

Again relying on VW power trains this Ibiza has the in-house three-cylinder 1.0-litre turbocharged petrol engine with a choice of 74, 94 or 114bhp outputs plus a one-off new 1.5-litre petrol engine offering 148bhp in the go-faster FR model which will naturally appeal to the younger driving brigade, particularly as there are no plans for a sports Cupra edition.

Most have a five-speed manual gearbox, although the quicker versions do have a six-speed manual box, while the trim levels remain much in the current SEAT model ranges, starting with the S, then SE, then the SE Technology with a choice of 74 or 94bhp (the latter one expected to be the biggest seller here) followed by the more sporty FR trio and a pair of the top spec XCELLENCE models.

The two key plus factors with this new Ibiza, apart from its quite stylish looks and more interior space, are the performance of the VW engines on offer and with that new chassis the quality and refinement of the drive and ride are far better this time around.

SEAT bosses here expect the SE Technology model with the 1.0-litre 94bhp engine under the bonnet coming in at £15,255 on-the-road and it's easy to see why because it has the ideal for most drivers in terms of performance and satisfaction.

This one clocks in too with an acceleration of 0 to 62mph of 10.9 seconds, combined fuel consumption of 60.1mpg, CO2 of 106g/km, sits in VED Band E, insurance group 11E and with a BiK of 20%.

It's also exceptionally well equipped sitting on 15-inch alloy wheels, LED daytime running lights, leather steering wheel, split fold rear seat (boot space is up to 355 litres on this new model), a five-inch colour touch infotainment screen, steering wheel mounted controls and much more.

For a driver looking for a cheaper option then the entry-level one-litre 74bhp S at £13,130 is a decent enough buy because it too has Bluetooth, air conditioning, auto headlights, anti-lock brakes, hill hold control plus stability control and multi-collision braking system and more, all of which are also included in all the SE versions.

Naturally the 94bhp engine has the edge on the 74bhp engine in terms of a little extra performance but both are extremely quiet and refined out on the road making them both lively an responsive when needed and relaxing too.

Both the five-speed and six-speed manual gearboxes are typically efficient VW too with such nice, crisp movement up and down and again a real joy to drive even in heavy, stop/start traffic when lots of gear changes are needed.

Obviously the sporty new 1.5-litre 148bhp will appeal more to the enthusiastic driver and again with the six-speed gear change gives a decent enough stronger performance, including competence when driven hard round twisty, country up and down roads as encountered on the media launch driving routes.

Again the FR (also available with the one-litre 94bhp and 114bhp engines and a DSG auto box) sits on better gripping 17-inch alloy wheels, sports suspension plus steering wheel mounted gearshift paddles and has a few more extras as standard inside with an eight-inch touch screen media system.

Top of the range is the XCELLENCE with the 94bhp output one-litre engine and comes in at £17,310.

This Ibiza not only looks a little more classy but with that new chassis and those excellent performing VW one-litre engines it drives and behaves much better out on the road - it's come a long way from Mr Giugiaro's original 30 odd years back.

Books

NEW BOOK: HERTFORDSHIRE - A CAPTIVATING COUNTY

This book explores a selection of the many interesting villages, towns, and cities that can be found in Hertfordshire which captivate visitors from home and abroad. The Oxford English Dictionary describes captivate as: enthral, fascinate, charm. A description which can easily be applied to this English county. The text of this book describes the history, heritage and variety of architecture to be found, and is accompanied by over one hundred colour photographs.

Kindle eBook available on Amazon

Peter Etteridge has been a freelance photographer and writer for over thirty years and was a regular contributor to Hertfordshire County Life, with fifty five illustrated articles being published up to the final issue to be published by Beaumonde Publications in 2012. He became a regular contributor to County Life Hertfordshire, Bedfordshire County Life, and Cambridgeshire County Life, and has also contributed to a number of other publications.

Essex County Council

Planning Application

Town and Country Planning Act 1990 (As Amended) Town And Country Planning (Development Management Procedure) (England) Order 2015 (As Amended) Notice Under Article 15

Notice is hereby given that Essex County Council is seeking planning permission for the creation of a new road junction to create a new, left hand in right hand out only, junction including off site ancillary operations and off site mitigation at the land to the west of, and adjacent to, Cambridge Road, just to south of the River Stort and Old Road, Cambridge Road, Harlow, CM20 2EU – CC/HLW/21/17

The land to the west of, and adjacent to Cambridge Road is situated within the Old Road North Conservation Area.

The proposed development may not accord with the provision of the development plan in force in the area which the land to which the application relates is situated. The proposal may affect the setting of Harlow Mill Restaurant which is a Grade II Listed Building.

Members of the public may inspect a copy of the application and other documents submitted with it online at www.essex.gov.uk/viewplanning or at Essex County Council at the below address (please call for an appointment on 03330 139808). Consultation on this application is open until 8th June 2017.

Representations or objections in respect of this application can be made online at www.essex.gov.uk/viewplanning; via email to mineralsandwastedm@essex.gov.uk; or in writing to the undersigned by 8th June 2017. Please include your name and full postal address. Any representations or objections received will be taken into account by the Council with the result that they may be made available to the public. For details on how information will be used and held by ECC please see the Minerals and Waste Planning Privacy Statement at <http://www.essex.gov.uk/Minerals-Waste-Planning-Team/>

(A414, Harlow)

(Temporary Prohibition of Traffic & Clearway) Order 2017

Notice is hereby given that the Essex County Council intends, not less than seven days from the date of this notice to make the above Order under Section 14(1) of the Road Traffic Regulation Act 1984.

Effect of the order:

1. To temporarily close that length of A414, Harlow in the District of Harlow, from its junction with A1025 Second Avenue to its junction with Southern Way, a distance of approximately 793 m.
2. A temporary "No Stopping" restriction will be introduced on both sides of carriageway on the above lengths of roads for the duration of the closure to facilitate the works. Signs will be installed indicating when the No Stopping restriction will be in force.

An alternative route is available via A1169 Southern Way, Katherine's Way, Third Avenue. A1025 Second Avenue and vice versa.

"The District of Harlow (On Street) (Waiting, Loading and Parking) (Consolidation) Order 2011" will be temporarily amended to include the temporary "No Stopping at Any Time" restriction and suspend any existing parking and waiting restrictions on the above lengths of roads only. All other restrictions and exemptions contained in the aforementioned Order and Amendments to that Order shall remain in force.

The works being undertaken will take place within an 18-month period from 01/06/2017, exact dates will be specified on <http://roadworks.org/>. The roads will be closed to facilitate each phase and then re-opened to the public. Access will be maintained for emergency services. Diversion routes will be signed at each location and residents will be informed of the dates of each phase via letter/leaflet drop and advanced warning signs on the road.

For all enquiries please contact our Contact Centre on 0345 603 7631.

The Order will come into effect on 01/06/2017 and may continue in force for 18 months or until the works have been completed, whichever is the earlier. Dated: 18/05/2017

Claire Petulengro YOUR STARS WITH

ARIES MARCH 21 - APRIL 20
You may not want to be the centre of attention this week, but you're going to be Aries. Try to enjoy what the coming days have to offer, as know that by the time this week comes to a close you are going to end up with more possibilities than you've had in the last two years. An ex wants to speak to you for all the wrong reasons. Ring now to hear what your best line of defence would be.

TAURUS APRIL 21 - MAY 21
Try to prepare yourself as soon as possible for the events you know are ahead of you this week. Preparation and research are essential to your success, and I know that success is important to you Taurus. You want to prove yourself after events from the beginning of the year and I can understand why. Ring now to hear how simply being you is the key to winning everyone over.

GEMINI MAY 22 - JUNE 21
I can see from your stars that you're hungry for success. I also see that you have been attempting to get one over on someone and you're still trying to get even. Don't make a game out of what can and should be a simple case of acceptance. Those involved want to move forward as much as you do Gemini. Ring now to hear why I know you're going to need to check that your passport is in date this year.

CANCER JUNE 22 - JULY 22
What you think to be promises from close ones, they may see as just a suggestion. Have a back up plan. Ensure you can do what needs to be done under your own steam if need be. What this week offers you is the chance to see that you were more than capable all along. Believe in yourself a little more my friend. If you think, you can be. Ring now so we can talk about last week's drama.

LEO JULY 23 - AUGUST 23
If you treat others fairly this week, then they will do the same when the time comes for you to ask them for a favour. I know you have had a lot on your plate over the last few days, but there is nothing that can't be achieved if you're willing to talk about your problems. Come on. For once, put that famous Leo pride to one side. Call now to hear who the stars want you to spend more time with.

VIRGO AUGUST 24 - SEPTEMBER 22
There is a surge of energy in your chart which is going to be making it impossible for you to concentrate on any one thing for too long. Try to make a mental list of what needs to be done in order of importance, so that you don't let yourself or those close to you down. A new face in your circle links to your future in more ways than you could imagine. Ring now for your lovesone.

LIBRA SEPTEMBER 23 - OCTOBER 23
You may not want what is being offered to you, but at least have the courtesy to listen when others speak. It can make all the difference as to whether or not they listen to you when the time comes. Ground work you do on new business ventures helps you build the firm base you'll need the next few years. A very colourful professional story is playing out. Ring now. We have much to discuss.

SCORPIO OCTOBER 24 - NOVEMBER 21
You think time is not on your side, but you are wrong. You and I know that it's better to do a little well than a lot badly. You discover this for yourself over the coming days as you receive praise for the things you worked hard at and criticism for the things you did not. News from far away gives you reason to look forward to your most colourful summer yet. Ring now for a full reading.

SAGITTARIUS NOVEMBER 22 - DECEMBER 20
You're ahead of your time with your ideas, that is the problem Sagittarius. You also see that certain faces who were willing to support you were simply blowing hot air. The good news is that from Monday you work out who can give you the support you need. One source in particular is set to be of much use. Ring now so we can talk about your recent mixed emotions in relationships.

CAPRICORN DECEMBER 21 - JANUARY 20
I know you're feeling sensitive Capricorn, but I also know that you have read deeper into current events than you were advised to. Use your element of earth to get back to the basics and to make sense of what can and cannot be done in the weeks ahead. Saturn helps you replenish missing funds. This may come at an awkward price, but one worth paying. Ring now so I can explain in full.

AQUARIUS JANUARY 21 - FEBRUARY 19
After what has been a rocky start, you now start to experience a sense of calm. Don't let this fool you into trusting those who have already let you down more than once this month, or you will only end up backing yourself into a corner you cannot get out of. A split in your circle sees someone free who is sure to be the cause of much gossip and speculation for you. Ring now to understand all.

PISCES FEBRUARY 20 - MARCH 20
You and I both know you have said some things you regret. We also know you cannot take them back. What you find yourself given this week is the gift of patience. You're finally willing to let others take their time and work out for themselves what is right and what is wrong. It is this clear vision which gives you the upper hand in love and family affairs. Ring now for a look at the bigger picture.

Lambert is on a high in Wycombe

YOUNG players from Harlow Judo Club travelled to High Wycombe to compete in the 61 Judo Club Green Belt & Below competition, with two picking up medals.

Eleven-year-old Owen Lambert showed maturity beyond his years and demonstrated great judo techniques in the Orange & Green Belt section.

After a dead heat in his pool, Owen was forced to fight his opponents again to take the gold medal.

George Franks (10) competed in the Red Belt section and lost his first fight which meant that he dropped to the repechage. He battled hard to win his remaining rounds, and displayed good use of counter techniques to secure the bronze medal.

Up next were Sam Cobbin-Brown (10) and Fionn Healy (11), who both competed in the same weight group.

The duo did their best against their individual opponents but ended up being unplaced.

The British Judo Association recently changed its rules in anticipation of the 2020 Olympics to be held in Tokyo, which made it even more challenging for the team, participants, coaches and referees.

Harlow Judo Club coach Mick Ellis said: "I am very pleased with the team's performance – they all fought very well and listened to my instructions. "They adapted very well to the new rules and we are already training hard for our next competition."

The club, based in Foldcroft, Harlow, caters for those with special needs and has a coach specifically for this area.

Opener Jones hits unbeaten ton for Harlow

HARLOW were unable to make it a winning start to their Shepherd Neame Essex League Division One campaign as they shared the spoils with Woodford.

Opener Hafiz Yawar (55) provided the visitors with a steady if unspectacular platform, and he was the first to go when he was, caught on the long off boundary.

As Hafiz departed the crease at 137 of 32 overs, he left a license to hit for the rest of the batsmen.

Skipper Rehman Ahmed (14), Ahmed Khawaja (34) and Ubaid Kiani (17 not out) kept the scoreboard ticking over while providing opener Alan Jones support to go about his business.

Jones batted with great maturity by put away the bad ball with an unbeaten 137 – helping to take the score to 262-3 off 50 overs.

In reply, Woodford never really got going with Nick Baxter (4-41) and Mitch Howarde (3-41) turning the screw with some fine bowling.

Rehman then turned to Ross Vasani (2-26) who not only found his rhythm in the game, but claimed valuable middle order wickets.

Woodford were struggling at 134-8 and batting out for the draw with 11 overs to go.

Howarde managed to force an inside edge from the Woodford captain John Gaffney in the penultimate over of the game.

The last over was blocked out and the game ended in a draw, with Woodford finishing on 162-9.

Harlow's 2nd XI (180 all out; John Perry 48) lost to Harold Wood II (181-4); Buckhurst Hill III (160 all out; Amir Farooq 6-13) lost to Harlow III (164-5; Dipendra Basnet 100 not out); Harlow IV (81-2; Rob Coldwell 39) beat Gidea Park & Romford III 80 all out (Thomas Smith Hughes 5-16, Jake Hitematshah 4-23).

■ Harlow Town enjoyed a comfortable victory against Benfleet at Phoenix Park in Shepherd Neame Essex League, Division Three at Phoenix Park on Saturday.

Benfleet's openers made an encouraging start, but the introduction of spinners Shaun Alderson (4-69) and Ronnie Yates (1-46) began to turn the tide in Harlow Town's favour.

More wickets tumbled when Elston (4-40) worked his wonders as Benfleet closed on 211-9 off their 50 overs.

Replying, Ashley Alderson dismantled the Benfleet attack, blasting his way to 53 off 29 balls.

Neil Gladwin (70 not out from 84 balls) and Joe Holland (84 not out from 83 balls) completed the job, overhauling the target with 11 overs to spare.
